Dear Nancy,

Thank you for performing double duty for the Kansas City community on March 30, 2011. Two different presentations within hours of one another made us appreciate your commitment to excellence and high level of energy even more. Your hectic day began by delivering the keynote, The Art of Mastery: Inspiring Excellence in Work & Life at the Kansas City Professional Development Council's annual conference. A few hours later you switched gears to deliver The Mastery of Leadership: Leading With Excellence In Challenging Times to our Leadership Alumni at Johnson County Community College (JCCC).

At JCCC our audience appreciated that you presented the material in a fun, memorable way. They valued that you involved them in the learning process through the interactive activities and they left with practical information that they could use. Your stories were inviting and engaging.

Thank you for sharing your expertise and passion for leadership! I had the privilege of attending both presentations and am happy to recommend both of your presentations to organizations looking to energize and engage their audience.

Best Regards,

Debbie Eisenhower
Staff Development/HR Coordinator
